

Lessons From Ferguson:

A COMMUNITY'S RESPONSE TO RACE AND RACISM

Case Writers:

Veronica Benavides

DOCTORAL CANDIDATE, ED.L.D. 16'
HARVARD GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Tracey Benson

DOCTORAL CANDIDATE, ED.L.D. 16'
HARVARD GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Raygine DiAquoi

DOCTORAL CANDIDATE, ED.D. 15'
HARVARD GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

MCLA

MONDAY, APRIL 27

6:30–8:30 PM

CENTER FOR SCIENCE &
INNOVATION ROOM 121

For more information contact:

Dana Rapp at 413-662-5197, or D.Rapp@mcla.edu

This case study presentation explores the circumstances that informed the organizational response of three school districts in St. Louis County to the civil unrest following the shooting of Michael Brown by a local police officer. How should organizations, particularly education organizations, respond to incidents involving racial tensions? This case brings to the forefront the racialized context in which educators operate, but often do not acknowledge.