SOCIOLOGY, ANTHROPOLOGY, SOCIAL WORK MAJOR PROGRAM

The Department of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work offers a four-year program leading to a Bachelor of Arts in sociology. The program emphasizes both scientific and humanistic methods of inquiry in the study of dynamics within families, delinquent gangs, factory workers, high technology industries, social classes, and other groups. Students are encouraged to integrate formal instruction with supervised activities outside the classroom such as internships in social agencies, research in the local community, service learning experiences, or attendance at professional meetings. Students may specialize in studying areas such as anthropology, sociology, social work, health and aging, children and families, or criminal justice. Programs available to majors can lead to graduate training in sociology, anthropology, social work, counseling, public health, law, and related disciplines. Many graduates pursue careers in such fields as counseling, corrections, health services, rehabilitation, urban planning, social research, management, and sales.

Students graduating with a major in sociology will:

- Be able to think critically, write and speak effectively, and utilize library and internet resources.
- Be able to understand sociocultural perspectives, demonstrate cross-cultural awareness, and identify forms of social inequality and stratification.
- Be able to understand social science research methods and findings.
- Be able to acquire active/applied learning experiences.
- Be prepared for careers and graduate school.
